ABOUT

I am an experienced full-stack web developer and a Cleveland, Ohio native (but relocating to southern California.)

I currently work as a web developer for Schaffer Partners Inc. in Cleveland Ohio. I love creating beautiful, responsive, and intuitive user experiences. I have a passion for building excellent websites and applications for my clients that range from individuals, to local businesses, and all the way up to international corporations.

I have been developing for over five years and aim to challenge myself daily by learning new technologies and trends in development.
